Many people are a little embarrassed by evangelism. They are more than happy to read Scripture on a Sunday morning in church but developing “liturgical laryngitis” in the food court by Monday afternoon. How might we shape leaders and communities to articulate and embody practices of evangelization in today’s increasingly secular world that feel both authentic and faithful? Guest lecturers include Rev. Dr. John Pentland from Hillhurst United Church in Calgary, Rev. Dr. Darrell Guder from Princeton and the Right Rev. Melissa Skelton, Bishop of the Diocese of New Westminster.
